GED Graduate Wins State Scholarship

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—Adil Ayadi, a GED graduate from Fayetteville Adult and Community Education, was awarded the Luther H. Black Scholarship on October 1, 2008. This prestigious award is given each year to one Arkansas High School Diploma (GED) graduate who demonstrates outstanding leadership, citizenship, and professional promise. Recipients are awarded $1000 per year and can be renewed up to four years to help with costs of higher education.

Ayadi was a student at Fayetteville Adult Education during the 2007-08 school year and was a commencement speaker at GED Graduation Ceremony in May. He will attend Northwest Arkansas Community College this spring and work towards certification in Drafting and CAD. His long-range plans are to study engineering at the University of Arkansas.

The Luther H. Black Memorial Scholarship was established to honor Dr. Luther Black for his 22 years of service and dedication as Manager of Adult Education for the state Education Department. Under his guidance, the Adult Education program grew from one office to an office in almost every county in Arkansas.

The Fayetteville Adult and Community Education Center is an Official Testing Center for the GED Tests, having met the requirements of the American Council of Education and the State of Arkansas GED Administrator. The Practice GED Test is given at the Fayetteville Center every Wednesday and Thursday 9:00 to 3:00 and Tuesday and Thursday evenings until 7:00 p.m. All testing is FREE.
